Bochum Storm Centre In Ruhr; Germans Disobey Orders

Penalties Have Been Imposed on the City and French Troops Collect Fines by Force—Detachment Seizes 250,000,000 Marks in the Reichsbank Branch

ESSEN, April 6.—Bochum is again the storm centre in the Ruhr, because of repeated acts of individuals against the French troops and the continued refusal of the German authorities to obey French orders. Penalties have been imposed on the city and French troops by force.

The streets on which the banks had been seized were patrolled by troops while a detachment went into the Reichsbank branch and seized 250,000,000 marks. This sum was from a fund sent into the city from Berlin to pay the French fine, but about a third of the fund was intended for payments in connection with the resistance movements, the French contend.

BLUE SKY BILL INTRODUCED IN ONTARIO HOUSE

Will Be Changed So as Not to Interfere with Mining in the North

TORONTO, April 6.—This act is not to stop speculation, but to stop "fraud," declared Hon. W. E. Rantzen, member of the cabinet, in the legislative assembly this afternoon, when the bill reading was given to the "blue sky" bill, introduced by the Ontario northern Ontario members that the law would not interfere seriously with mining development.

The attorney general promised that the bill would be amended to present draft of the bill by which mining and prospecting operations would be controlled, and the provisions which cover the sale of mineral products by companies.

Mr. Rantzen said that he hoped there would be every opportunity given in committee for amendment.

K. J. COLLINGS IS STRUCK BY AUTO; IS BADLY INJURED

BURGESS, April 6.—K. J. Collings, 42, of 1835 19th street, employed in the office of the department, was riding a bicycle north on 19th street, near the corner of First avenue, a motor car proceeding south on 19th turned east and struck him, knocking him down. The motorist stopped, got out and, breaking his leg, while the victim was unconscious, probably includes a fractured skull.

A passing car conveyed Mr. Collings to the hospital, where he was removed to the General Hospital in Connaught.

Up to midnight the driver of the car who ran Mr. Collings down has not been located. The master of the car, however, was found safe, though the car number was in the possession of the police, and no criminal record could be investigated.

Sir Rider Haggard Derides Theory Lord Carnarvon Came To End By Magic

Panic Among Private Collectors of Antiques in England—Great

Numbers Are Sending Their Treasures to British Museum

Feared to Retain Them Longer

HASTINGS, England, April 6.—All this business about Sir Carnarvon's death brought out the best in the British museum in London, fearing to lose its most valuable collection, because it goes to say that Sir Carnarvon was killed by Tutankhamun's tomb, so now it seems to be overflowing all over the world. Sir Rider Haggard, the author of "King Solomon's Mines" is in an address to the Hastings Board.

"Wherever one looks," continued Sir Rider, "old suppositions are overthrown, and new ones created. And it would make men and women shudder to think what may be happening in Russia and Ireland today. Have there ever been more strange things than those that took place in the last year or two? but sensible men do not believe in magic. Although we permit the spirit of old King Pharaoh, who was only a man with a few simple superstitions, to rule us by magical means. It is interesting, and as Christians we cannot fail to believe that they must have been very bad things that could happen if they could."

"These things are all very well in the realm of romance. In relating facts, however, we must be practical, stick to nothing."

Sent Relics to Museum

LONDON, April 6.—The British Museum has been invited to receive a collection of relics from the Canadian exhibition which will begin a tour of all the great cities of Europe.

Mr. Edward S. Hart, sponsor of the first of June, Senator C. P. Beauchamp, sponsor of the project announced, which declares that a number of people over Great Britain are sending their treasures to the British museum in London, fearing to lose them.

It is noted that the collection is not to be given to the British museum, but to the British Government, which will be used for the benefit of the British people, and the rest will be retained by the British

BUDGET DEBATE
IS ENDED; HOUSE

back on our feet in the next five years."

The government forces to the rescue of forty voted yesterday against the Liberal amendment on supply and were supported by the Progressive and Rural Federation, Independent, Mr. R. Davidson, Calgary, the member for Edmonton, and Mr. J. W. MacLennan, who had voted with the opposition together with ten Liberals. The debate came in immediately after the vote was taken, the other debates being Dr. J. S. H. Ross, Progressive; Dr. L. (Lethbridge) E. A. Carson, U.P.A.; Mr. J. C. Ross, Liberal; Mr. J. D. (Edmonton) and Dr. J. E. State (Glenavon) Liberals.

The government of Mr. Bowes said:

"The house views the large budget with grave apprehension, and doth advise His Majesty's government to come to the same within the limits of the revenue required, especially as he has received no such information."

Thirty-two speeches were delivered in the debate, the motion before Premier Greenfield closed the debate. Many two-hour addresses featured oratorical contests in the long session.

Mr. Bowes opened up the debate with a speech in which he urged the administration and a vigorous defense of the budget. The venerable orator, once a member of the U.F.A. members with Hon. Mr. Brownie Thursday morning, was followed by Mr. Ross, who launched forth with the opposition. Friday, the opposition, headed by Mr. Carson, was ready back on the government's heels. The budget was forwarded to the last of now, "make haste."

He said that the U.P.A. government had broken faith with the people and they ought to carry out the pledges or throw up their hands.

Who Runs the Country?

"Who's running this country?" "Who's in charge?" "Who's in control?" queried Alex Moore, Conservative, who insisted that the government must get down to brass tacks.

"It is running it now," retorted Mr. Bowes, "and I am running it on orders from the U.P.A."

A government had broken faith with the people. They were sowing the seeds of discord, said Mr. Bowes.

He said that the government was working to the detriment of the province.

Mr. Bowes paid a tribute to the press of the province which did more and more non-partisan, unfavourable conditions.

Lorne Prouton, Mr. Bowes' spokesman, covered an extensive field of argument in a closely packed two-hour speech.

Mr. Prouton went into departmental detail in an effort to make his case.

It is reported that the baller was to be held at the Royal Canadian Legion hall that day.

Mr. Prouton continued his story of the savings effected in the budget.

Mr. Prouton continued his story of the savings effected in the budget.

Mr. Prouton said that the old Liberal benches "made the fundamental mistake of not having a plan which would reserve discussion of his departments until the budget was passed."

He referred to Mr. Bowes' opinion that the government must be held responsible for the money spent.

LAWYER TURNS SCULPTOR ON A BET, NAIL FILE WINS FAME AND $7500 FEE

By Edward Thiberry

NEW YORK—A lawyer turned sculptor who never took a lesson in art has won a $7,500 fee for his work on a nail file and a buttonhook. He has jumped from obscurity to fame in just six months. His fee is as high as $7,500 for one statue.

The sculptor is John de Polignac, whose exploit is a bust of W. C. Durant, automobile manufacturer, the man who started the great General Motors empire by popular conception.

"Artists don't start out mislabeled as artists," he says. "They are not born artists, they are made artists with idiosyncrasies and expounding of temperament."

De Polignac, 35, the great artist, says: "Art is commerce, and commerce is art. Art is like a good wine; it cannot endure."

Legion says an artist can succeed only in a temperamental field.

He points to the Duran bust as an example.

"I chased him around for three months, but he got—no—minutes pasted on his desk. I had to leave his office, but he was so interested in my work and I simply adjusted mine to his taste, on my own house, and I had a bust of him in my studio."

De Polignac's bust has been pronounced perfect by critics. The same is true of his head of Madam Gen. John J. Pershing, which is one of 27th Division, for which he received $7,500.

De Polignac's revolutionary ideas about art have had a successful democratic touch. He has sold his studio and is now in New York, where he is having a discussion with a friend over sculpturing.

He has never taken a lesson in art or drawing, but he has never been taught before, and within 30 minutes made a bust of a man who had a nail file and a buttonhook. The friend considered it such a good bust that he signed it and exhibited it.

De Polignac was then besieged with commissions. He did busts of Mrs. Walter Lewellen, Mrs. Rogers, President Wilson, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, President M. G. C. Gandy, Captain of the 62nd Infantry, famous captain of the 62nd Regiment and others.

De Polignac is a musical but his family in Italy insisted their son should not follow in his footsteps and force him into law. He practiced as a lawyer in Florence and came to America in 1914, but left in 1918. He didn't like it. With another artist he painted murals in a villa in Italy. He wrote several monumental works, including "Italian in the United States" and with the endorsement

BERNARDO FRANCIO PEL PIATTA (RIGHT) MAN OF MANY ARTS AND HIS BUST OF W. C. DURANT. One of the people such books as "The Catholic Church in the United States" and "The Vatican, Its History and Treasures." In 1918 he exhibited at the Paris Salon, and now is exhibiting at the Royal Academy of Art in London.

"My Duran head was a test of common sense," he said. "It was well and so was—I just wanted to see if I could do it."

Why not that, instead of foolish talk about applying art to business?

Prima Donna Names Greatest Singer She Has Ever Heard

By Marcella Sembrich.

Whenever I am asked who I consider the greatest I always give this answer: "I have heard many voices, among the golden memories being the voice of the great singing amount of beauty."

The sound of it lingered in my memory, and I have often strayed far away from the vibrant warbles rising to a vibrant warble, even though its range was beyond its power.

Every celebrated artist acquires from various and widely divergent points in the province, and judging from the fare, and to borrow an expression frequently used in criticism, it will be the largest.

The committee is making preparations for competition have been invited to enter, and the classes open to competition have been invited to enter. Notes accommodate the various points in the province to donate medals for the various co-operating to make it as easy as possible for contestants and judges to award prizes.

The large festival chorus which the committee is giving freely of its time, and from a close scrutiny of the festival would have been through this festival would have an unprecedentedly large number of entries.

I do not hesitate to say that Adelina Patti is the greatest singer in the world of birth art as she has happened only once in my life.

Adelina Patti's vocal and physical beauty, her incomparable artistry, her control of the art of singing, equalled by no other, and a commanding presence which made her incomparable in the roles she sang.

When quite a young student in Vienna, Patti, through her skill and experience when I first heard Adelina Patti sing, I was struck by her beauty.

HAIR STAYS BOBBED---AND BANGED

ATLANTA, Ga.—Don't be too hasty about getting in to cut up your bobbed hair.

You'll find you'll have to cut it anyway, to keep outside with fashion. In fact, you'll have to cut the front off, because the hair would be up to the chin in hair style.

That's the word Atlanta society leaders have brought back here from the Florida winter resorts. The new, or bobbed, haircut has almost reached the city and is moving northward, and westward with remarkable rapidity.

There are two styles of bangs—the straight & flat, the curved and the wavy fringe type. The former seems to have been adopted by the brunettes, while the blonds have taken to the curl. And their popularity is growing, because the "official" ruling against them.

"We just like the short style," says Miss Douglas Paine, pretty Atlanta debutante. "They ruled that out for a few short months, but now it's back again. The shorter, more daring dresses are going to be even shorter than ever."

"Women may like to change styles, but men don't have any argument, but when they come to me, that's sensible and stylish, too. It takes a deep root and a long time must pass before it goes out of date."

MAN WHO INTRODUCED WHITE DUCKS IN YUKON

Took a Lot of Courage to Wear Them. But Hon. T. D. Pattullo Did It.

B. BRUCE HUTCHISON:

M. I. D. was a hero who wears white flames to an official ball or a tuxedo to a tennis party. Judges by that standard, Hon. T. D. Pattullo, British Columbia Minister of Lands, is supremely brave man. An old timer of the Yukon stamped out one of this story to prove it:

When the rush of '98 was at the dizzy height of its intensity, Hon. T. D. Pattullo, then a young lawyer, found himself swimming into Dawson in an unending stream.

"Duffer" Pattullo, as he was then called, those days was a clerk in the gold commissioners office—a bright young fellow, something in his twenties. That was before he started to be an "adviser" in the accompanying caricature, which I made when he was under the wing of the Yukon Columbia League.

Now young Duff, it appears, liked to keep himself spick and span regardless of the place where he dressed up, as he would in Toronto or Vancouver. He had an idea, he explained afterwards, that a man is more efficient when he is clean, shaved and dressed well. From the time he first put on a well-dressed man in British Columbia now. Any way, in '98 he didn't care what the crusty popular politicians thought of this clothes.

It was while he was in the Yukon that Pattullo showed his nerve. While all the world, or at least all the hard-boiled fols of Dawson, were in a fever of excitement over the suddenly blossomed forth one morning arrayed in white duck trousers! The first white duck trousers in the Yukon, so the oldtimers say. So long as all his glory wouldn't have surprised them more.

"And believe me, it took a lot of pluck to sport them ice-crammed pants there in those days," said the friend assuredly. "I am sure he spoke in solemn admiration and I believed him."

THREE SECRETARIES HANDLE PRINCE'S MAIL

Daily Mail Bag of Prince of Wales Often Contains Five Hundred Letters.

MORE than seven hundred letters are received by the Prince of Wales every day. Frequently his letterbag has contained as many as fifteen or sixteen hundred.

A few days before the prince started on his Indian tour two thousand letters a day were sent to him.

The prince's correspondence is dealt with by a staff of twelve, controller of his household, an official who is assisted by a secretary and a personal maid. Their duty is to sort all letters and bring to the prince's notice anything that may require his personal attention.

The mail, on being delivered, is put into a bank safe labeled "Engagements," "Legal," "Financial," and "General." The last-named basket is always with him.

The prince receives on an average about two hundred requests for his signature every day, in fact, these requests become so numerous recently that he had to make a rule that no one who was not known personally to him should be given his signature.

A large number of begging letters are, of course, turned down. These, however, the writers seem to have a special grievance. If the applicant in really deserving, the prince does what he can to help him. Every day he receives scores of letters from open-mouthed beggars, attend dinners or other functions, and it is said that if these invitations were accepted, the prince would have three or four engagements of this nature for every day throughout the year.

THE very fast fact that Winston Churchill has got himself hung up becoming premier of Great Britain, has caused some alarm that British politics will not be altogether quiet for the next few years.

Churchill and Lloyd George are still trusted for the moment, but the last always be reckoned with because of their strong sense of the dramatic, which Grey, Asquith, Bonar Law and others of the English leaders had.

Anquith once declared, "I am a Quaker without judgment." Just what effect the recent publication of his naval history of the great war will have on his political career is hard to say upon his future political career is a problem.

Churchill, it is said, in the political clubs, was the only member of whom Lloyd George had even fear. It is said that Churchill will always find a place for him in his cabinet—just keep him as quiet as possible.

He is a man who can be won by no bonds. What fireworks will happen when he returns to the political arena recuperated in health is a favorite speculation in English political circles just now.

His own pet bill, against the publication of betting odds had, up to date, to be held up, and quite a few other laws were also held up.

STANLEY BALDWIN has the making of a very dangerous constitutional agitator, according to some London critics. The most popular chancellors of the exchequer are those who know nothing about the exchequer, who, not only do not understand it, but do not even know what it is. Mr. Baldwin is a man of great political tact, a positive man, with very definite ideas and very strong convictions.

He is the most famous transmogrifier, however, to be ever caught by his chancery in the quiet conference shown in the photograph.

He has bluffed, though, that Mr. Baldwin, after the prolonged "magnetizing" of his former chief, Lloyd George, is enamored of tranquillity, however, so it seems he'll be caught by his chancery in the quiet conference shown in the photograph.

Though affected, like everyone else, by the Georgian magnetism, Mr. Baldwin certainly did like the Georgian pose and he detected the Georgian spirit in the Ontario legislature, unquestionably stands out as Canada's most rapid speaker.

His average rate of speech is set forth as 200 words a minute and this work is assuredly done.

In his recent address on the budget in the legislative assembly, Mr. Nickle spoke for four hours without ever turning the smallest hair.

It is the most remarkable table for former Canadian residents was reserved by the Vancouver Canadian Club and a vote of thanks to the tuner was moved by Mr. E. B. Bollert, who taught him in Sunday school to sing the old Guelph days.

He is justly regarded as a terror to the artful lawyers, the newspaper men, etc.

He speaks distinctly, although there is a peculiar squeak in his voice, and he would not be a peculiar

EWARD JOHNSON, the Irish boy who has won success in the operatic world and is now leading tenor at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, was in Vancouver recently and was entertained by the Canadian Club at luncheon. In the course of his address the famous singer appealed for a wider appreciation of things artistic by Canadian business men. After the luncheon, Mr. Johnson was asked if he attended my recitals recently," he said.

"This man came in late and argued with the usher, who told him he could not go down the aisle, so he went up the stairs and sat in the balcony, and I heard him sing a number," he said in lead tones.

"I'm sorry, you cannot go in. You are drunk and you are likely to have a fit," he said.

"I know I'm drunk," was the reply. "If I don't go you think I'd be at a high brow show like this?"

THE recent elevation of Timothy Healy to the post of government of the Irish Free State recalls one of the many exacting tests of the skill of P. J. O'Farrell, editor of the Dublin Freeman's Journal, who was wont to gibe his fellow editors of the imperial press on such occasions as the "white duck law."

CHAPTER II

A FEW GENERAL REMARKS

In the introductory chapter of last week, the purpose of this special page was explained. This week's, as indicated by the heading, touches on things in general. The remaining eleven chapters will deal with Edmonton, its industries, its geographical importance and its possibilities.

The directory shown below is fairly comprehensive, though of course incomplete. To make it more or less complete, we have added some general headings. A wide variety of types though many exist that are not represented in the list. An expression of appreciation is due the concerns appearing on this page for their support in this movement.

Business conditions in Edmonton today are certainly no worse than elsewhere. On the contrary favorable comparisons may be drawn. The activity of pre-war days is missing still, but there is little if anything to prevent an early return.

It is important to realize this individual viewpoint. The European situation is wholly to blame for our recent commercial depression. Remedies exist at home which really could be used. The greatest offender in hard times is the man that can afford to spend and want. Not necessarily the man of means but someone in a steady job. Listening to the general tale of woe he decides to cut his ordinary purchases in half. For every man that does this and that are not so fortunate, the whole edifice falls apart. After all, the powers of imitation are most wonderful than despair.

Imagine for instance the following as a sample. A man in a steady job wants an overcoat at the beginning of winter. Blue ruin talk decides him in making the old one do through it is threadbare and shabby. He can afford to buy, he wants to and he ought to. But a subtle propaganda succeeds in stopping him. Out comes last year's garment suffering from settle decay and groaning at the prospect of another season's wear. In time of war, a man's mind is easily swayed, all considerate, thoughtful and able to pay for them, have followed suit and a thousand ancient coats are brought again to light. At $25.00 per coat a sum of $25,000.00 is lost to dealers in coats. Because they have lost this sum they are forced to discharge a portion of their help. The spending power of the help is surely affected. The result is that dealers in other lines are forced to limit the actions of the dealers in coats. It is an endless chain and gets worse all the time. And all because one man refused to buy a coat when he needed it and had the money to buy it.

In defence of this the man may argue that on account of bad times he fancied his steady job was threatened and decided to retrench. The reply is that his act of refusing to purchase and unconsciously causing others to do the same, did not enter the permanency of his job than anything else. Talkers of blind rules and the people who listen are often mainly responsible for hard times.

Home industry and the patronage of same are other important factors. This patronage is often lacking for no other reason than that "a prophet is without honor in his own country." If a certain article is manufactured locally and offers the same price and quality of others that are imported, it is natural to prefer the former. But it often does not. Shrewd reasoning and public-spiritedness in this respect are often lacking in people otherwise quite reasonable.

A dollar spent on the home article stays at home and never ceases to work for the benefit of the community at large. Portions of it in its rounds go to the help of many different industries and support many different jobs. This must of necessity create good times and eventually returns to the person that started it on its journey. A dollar spent on an article imported goes to the foreigner and leaves the country for ever. It will work too but for the support of far-away communities at our expense. Patronage of home industry increases home industry. Concentrated effort in this direction improves the quality of goods and decreases the price. It also reflects advantageously on those offering the support. It isn't a question of philanthropy but simply one of sound common sense.

Many other suggestions could be offered for the general improvement of business conditions locally but space for the moment forbids. Suffice it to say that Edmonton is approaching the dawn of a very great tomorrow and invitations are sent out to the seekers of opportunity. Qualifications urgently needed are common sense, ambition, optimism and a desire to work.
